Marria Evbuoma – Appointed by District 1 Supervisor (WW)

Marria is a Zero Waste consultant and Director of Communications for Race to Zero Waste, a local non-profit. Since moving to San Francisco in 2005 from the Chicago area, Marria has always lived near Ocean Beach. Her love of the ocean and reverence toward water is what drew her environmental causes. She enjoys gardening, writing, and spending time with her son, Owen, and their 2 cats.

Suki Kott – Appointed by District 2 Supervisor (W)

Suki is a former software engineer having most recently worked for eMeter (now a Siemens business). For five years she worked on eMeter's EnergyIP application - a platform for smart grid deployments used by utilities around the world.

Suki has also done legislative work for the San Francisco Board of Supervisors where she worked on issues related to children, women and technology. Her technical experience combined with her legislative experience gives her the ability to understand and clearly communicate the technical and social implications behind technology related policy issues, a subject that she has written about in online publications. Suki has also been an outspoken advocate for transparency and open government since 2007. She has a BA in English Literature from San Francisco State University, a certificate in computer programming from City College of San Francisco, and an MS in Software Engineering from Golden Gate University.

Steven Kight-Buckley – Appointed by District 3 Supervisor (P)

Bio forthcoming.

VACANT – Appointed by District 4 Supervisor

Emily Algire – Appointed by District 5 Supervisor (P)

Emily is a fundraising associate at local nonprofits by day and an organizer for environmental and social justice by night. In 2017, the Democratic Socialists of America became Emily's political home. She organized and facilitated meetings, took on leadership roles, and honed her principles alongside a multitude of activists committed to fighting climate chaos, environmental injustice, and economic inequalities.

In the wake of the 2018 Camp Fire, California's deadliest wildfire on record, Emily dove headfirst into the world of public utilities. She was quickly appointed as a co-chair of LetsOwnPGE.org, where she worked on direct action and coalition building toward public ownership of California's largest power utility. She subsequently co-chaired DSA San Francisco's Ecosocialist Committee for two terms.

Emily has worked in fundraising and development for the last 14 years, at KALW Public Radio, the Berkeley Public Library Foundation, and Save the Redwoods League. She has a bachelor of arts in Environmental Studies from Pacific Lutheran University.

Amy Zock – Appointed by District 6 Supervisor (WW)

Amy currently works at NationBuilder as a client manager and previously ran the company's Oakland, CA office. As the only woman on the Political Enterprise Sales team, she made it her mission to focus on helping women candidates and advocacy organizations use NationBuilder. She received her M.A. in Public Affairs from the University of San Francisco, where she worked as the Bay Area Coordinator for Oxfam America. Her role included organizing volunteers for local lobby visits, monthly meetings, and events around climate change and food security. After graduation, she embedded herself in political clubs and organizations that focus on advancing the professional and personal lives of women in the Bay Area. She was also previously a Partner in the consulting firm, The Adriel Hampton Group (AHG). Throughout her time at San Francisco City Hall, she analyzed the existing effectiveness of the Urban Agriculture Programs, including their locations and resources. She conducted a community needs assessment of community, resident, and business needs, as well as, created an aggressive strategy of hosting town halls, individual community member interviews, and monthly working group meetings. Her experience planning, conducting, and collaborating with 12 city departments for the 2013 Urban Agriculture Ordinance prepared her to maneuver the unique landscape of water, power, and land use across San Francisco. Before moving to District 3 in 2018, Amy lived and worked in District 4 for five years and has benefited from initiatives Supervisor Tang has championed, such as the Front Yard Ambassadors Program.

VACANT – Appointed by District 7 Supervisor

Amy Nagengast – Full CAC Secretary and Wastewater Subcommittee Chair, Appointed by District 8 Supervisor (W & WW)

Amy is the San Francisco International Airport's Energy Manager on topics related to energy planning, analysis, commissioning and management. Previously, Amy worked as a Senior Energy Engineer at Bright Power where she designed and implemented water and energy retrofits in large low-income and market rate multifamily properties throughout California. To support California's Climate Goals, Amy has experience in retrofitting large central domestic hot water systems from natural gas to electricity using heat pump water heaters. Early in her career, Amy designed and oversaw capital improvement projects for water and wastewater treatment plants and distribution networks. Amy enjoys tackling problems using integrated data modeling and visualization to facilitate strategic decision making surrounding interrelated issues of climate, energy, resource planning, growth, building construction and infrastructure systems. As a proud resident of District 8, Amy is excited to contribute her knowledge and passion to advance important issues facing San Francisco's power, water and sewer services. Amy holds a Ph.D. in Civil and Environmental Engineering from Carnegie Mellon University and a B.S in Civil Engineering from University of Wisconsin-Madison. She is a Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design Accredited Professional (LEED AP) and also a registered Professional Engineer.

Moisés García – Power Subcommittee Chair, Appointed by District 9 Supervisor (P)

Moisés has worked in the nonprofit sector for more than 10 years focused on LGBT youth empowerment, providing healthcare and mental health services to under-served communities. Currently, he works as an independent consultant specializing in community and economic development as well as nonprofit administration. Prior to consulting, he was the manager of the Latino Cultural District where he was responsible for implementing a community-driven economic development strategy which aimed to protect and strengthen residents, businesses and community institutions. In an effort to ensure equity among cultural districts, he and other leaders co-founded the San Francisco Cultural District Coalition. He currently serves as legislative chair of the Castro Queer Cultural District which is in the process of being designated a cultural district. He is a member and secretary of Danza Azteca Xitlalli which preserves the indigenous traditions of Aztec dance while instilling and strengthening cultural pride and respect for Mother Earth. His parents immigrated from Aguascalientes, Mexico, and settled in Southern California where they raised six children. He is a graduate of UC Berkeley with a degree in political economy and public policy focused on development and the environment.
